

Getting Mobile

In 1948, the first transportable planetarium was introduced by the Museum of Science in Boston, USA. The museum developed a “road show” for presentations in schools, libraries and churches. Today, portable planetariums are inflatable and allow to travel to places which have no or limited access to a planetarium.

